

FORTHEM Collective Short-Term Mobility

SUMMER SCHOOL ON “MIGRANTS’ RIGHTS IN EUROPEAN SPACE”

Organising university: University of Palermo

Location of the event: Palermo, Italy

Organisers: The Department of Architecture is the academic department coordinating the FORTHEM Lab “Diversity and Migration”. This department has a great organisational capacity and experience in the management of educational activities, including summer schools and postgraduate masters. It is also equipped with services and spaces suitable for hosting students from different foreign universities.

Project description: This school is addressed to university students with specific interest on contemporary migratory movements, starting from the European zone, with study orientation that focuses on the account of the migratory experiences, with an interdisciplinary approach. Students will gain the skills on: the issue of the right to housing for migrants as a specific declination of the “right to the city”; the issue of the EU migration policies and their impact on human rights of migrants; the issue of the role of languages for migrants as a tool of the process of migrants’ inclusion and an expression of the diversity that features the urban space.
