What is IncluKIT?

IncluKIT (Inclusive Intercultural Communication Training Kit for Initial Reception of Migrants) is a 15-month project that aims at creating a training kit for the whole spectrum of volunteers and professionals involved in the initial reception of newly arrived migrants in European countries, focusing on the understanding and analysis of cultural differences during this transitional phase.

IncluKIT is awarded by FIT FORTHEM (a joint project of FORTHEM) funded by the Horizon 2020 Framework Programme of the European University.

Why would I participate to this workshop?

FORTHEM Diversity and Migration Lab organizes this workshop to introduce their co-creation pilot project, and to receive initial feedback on their proposal from the stakeholders involved in the project.

The project team is eager to hear feedback from the workshop participants and if anyone has experience in similar projects. Hence, the Lab also welcomes academics, students, and university-external stakeholders working with inclusion and migration to join this workshop to network and exchange.

Where and when is this workshop?

This workshop will take place in Teams on 31 March 2022, at 10-13 CET.

How can I participate?

Please register to the event by 25 March via this link. After the registration, you will receive the link to the event by email
